2_Rationale

Payment devices (hardware) and POS applications (software) are evolving technologies. They follow a natural product life cycle. Payment hardware is primarily governed by the Payment Card Industry Security Standards Council's (PCI SSC) regulatory compliance requirements, in addition to market activity and market demand.

Ingenico US is taking the action to EOL the products listed above due their replacement by products that have been significantly improved in performance, contactless reader certification requirement changes, and a desire to move to the PCIPTS V3/4 version to provide products meeting the latest available security standard for the product range.

After the expiration date, Ingenico is unable to sell or ship any new products to customers. However, Ingenico may continue to repair said products and provide software updates as required.
